Overview

The Isle of Man Financial Services Authority (“the Authority”) is registered with the Isle of Man Information Commissioner as a data controller under Isle of Man data protection legislation. The Authority collects and processes personal data to carry out its functions under relevant legislation and may share personal data with other parties where there is a legal basis for doing so. Information on how the Authority collects and processes personal data can be found in the main Privacy Notice on the Authority’s website:

<https://www.iomfsa.im/terms-conditions/privacy-notice/>

This document is the Financial Reporting System (‘FRS’) Website Privacy Notice and provides specific information on privacy matters for users of the FRS Website (<https://www.fscreturns.co.im/>). This document should be read in conjunction with the Authority’s main Privacy Notice.

Questions and Answers (Q&As)

Why does the Authority collect personal data from the FRS Website?

The Authority receives personal data through this website. This personal data must be provided to complete the registration process.

What personal data does the Authority collect about you?

We will only use personal data provided by you to deliver FRS. The Authority may check data which it receives about you with what is already in its records. This can include data provided by you as well as by others such as other Government departments.

Why does the Authority process personal data about you?

To use the services offered by this site you must first complete registration on the system. During registration, you are asked to provide certain details to allow the Authority to verify the identity of individuals. This data must be provided as it is critical to the registration process.

How does the Authority store and protect your personal data?

The Authority takes all reasonable precautions to protect site users' data. Any personal details or other information entered or submitted through the site or by e-mail to the Authority is entered or transmitted at the site users' risk. The Authority shall not be liable for any such information being intercepted or accessed by any third party without the knowledge of the Authority or any of its officers, employees or agents.

Access to site users' data is restricted in our offices. Only employees who need the data to perform a specific job are granted access to personally identifiable information. All Authority staff are required to undertake mandatory annual data protection training, and are subject to our Information Security Policy

Does the FRS website use cookies?

This site does not use cookies. Cookies are pieces of data stored locally on your computer and contain information about your activities on the internet. The Authority's main website does use cookies. For further information, please refer to the Website and Cookies webpage.

Changes to your personal data?

If your personal data changes, please contact the Authority to correct or update your personal data on our system. You may de-register from the service either by contacting your designated system administrator or by contacting the Authority.

Does the Authority share your personal data with other parties?

The Authority does not share any personal data submitted via the FRS website with any other parties.

What rights do you have over your personal data?

As a data subject, you have a number of rights over your personal data and how it is processed:

- Right to be informed – About how the Authority uses your personal data. This Privacy Notice explains how we collect and process your personal data.

- Right of access – Access and obtain a copy of your data and certain processing information on request.
- Right to rectification – Request the Authority to change incorrect or incomplete data.
- Right to erasure – Request the Authority to delete your data, for example where the data is no longer necessary for the purposes of processing.
- Right to restrict processing – Request the Authority to restrict processing of your data, for example where there is no longer an appropriate basis for processing.
- Right to data portability – To receive personal data you have provided to the Authority in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format where it is processed by automated means. You may also request that the Authority transmit this data to another controller. The right to data portability is not applicable for personal data processed for FRS, this is because the lawful basis for this processing is Public Task; the processing is necessary for us to perform a task in the public interest or for our official functions.
- Right to object – Object to the processing of your data by the Authority. This only applies in certain circumstances and will therefore depend on the purpose and lawful basis for processing.
- Rights related to automated decision-making including profiling – However, the Authority does not currently carry out any automated decision making.

If you would like to exercise any of these rights, please contact the Authority’s Data Protection Officer (see contact details below).

If you believe that the Authority has not complied with your data protection rights, you can discuss your concerns with our Data Protection Officer (see below). If you are not satisfied with a response you receive from us then you can make a complaint to the Isle of Man Information Commissioner, whose details can be found on www.inforights.im. You may have a right to other remedies.

What happens if you do not provide personal data?

Unfortunately, if you do not provide the minimum personal data required, you will not be able to use the FRS Website.
